PRESSURE TREATED

FenceScape's Terra® pressure treated wood uses innovative MicroPro® wood preservation technology where copper is pressure treated into the wood in a solid micronized form, without the use of solvents. The MicroPro® preservative technology is a waterborne, micronized copper azole (MCA) system developed to provide long-term protection for wood exposed in exterior applications. Pressure treated fences are an excellent cost saving alternative to other fence material and provide natural beauty and longevity for years to come without the requirement of extensive maintenance.
